

THIS WEEK'S PROGRESS

- On June 1, Gov. Andy Beshear announced due to increased vaccinations, senior centers will reopen at full capacity on June 11.
- As reported on Tuesday, the top five counties by percent of residents vaccinated: Woodford (62%), Franklin (60%), Fayette (58%), Boone (52%) and Scott (51%). The bottom five counties by percent of residents vaccinated: Christian (19%), Spencer (20%), Ballard (21%), McCreary (22%) and Lewis (22%).

NEXT WEEK'S GOALS

- The state's emerging economy is set for liftoff as final capacity restrictions related to COVID-19 end Friday, June 11. The same day, the state will also eliminate the mask mandate for all Kentuckians with the exceptions of places where people are the most vulnerable.

Lindsay Jones and her daughter Kennedy made many sacrifices during the pandemic to protect themselves and others. Now, Lindsay and Kennedy have received the vaccine and are looking forward to getting back to school and the things they love. Watch video.

THINGS TO KNOW

- “These vaccines are miracles. They have effectively eliminated death and hospitalization for the most vulnerable,” said Gov. Beshear. “They are saving lives every day and we’ve got to make sure more people get them.”
