

THE HONORS PROGRAM

A CAREER IN THE OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR

WHO WE ARE

The Office of the Solicitor, the legal counsel for the U.S. Department of Labor employs approximately 540 attorneys who enforce and interpret the nation's labor and employment laws.

The Honors Program at the Office of the Solicitor provides challenging professional opportunities for outstanding law school graduates. Honors Program attorneys work in the Solicitor's Office either at the department's headquarters in Washington, D.C., or in one of seven regional offices, gaining exposure to a broad range of substantive legal work in one of the government's preeminent legal offices.

From the first day in the Solicitor's Office, Honors Program attorneys gain practical experience in carrying out the Labor Department's important mission: to promote the welfare of wage earners, job seekers, and retirees, improve working conditions, advance opportunities for profitable employment, and ensure work-related benefits and rights. Recent assignments include arguing in federal courts of appeals on employee benefits issues, drafting new worker safety regulations, and filing suits to recover unpaid wages for temporary agricultural workers.

OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR
UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Isidro Mariscal

Northwestern Pritzker School of Law,
Honors Program 2017

Christine Han

Boston University School of Law,
Honors Program 2017

DO. GOOD. WORK.
DOL.GOV/SOL/HONORSPROGRAM

Learn more and APPLY TODAY

Equal Employment Opportunity: Applications will be considered without regard to race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, age, marital status, disability, political affiliation, genetic information, sexual orientation, membership in an employee organization, retaliation, parental status, military service or any other non-merit factor.