

accompanied by statistical documents and catch documents. Since there are statistical document programs in place under other international conventions (e.g., the Indian Ocean Tuna Commission), a statistical document or catch document from another program may be used to satisfy the statistical document requirement for imports into the United States.

Dealers who internationally trade Southern bluefin tuna are required to participate in a trade tracking program to ensure that imported Atlantic and Pacific bluefin tuna will not be intentionally mislabeled as “southern bluefin” to circumvent reporting requirements. This action is authorized under ATCA, which provides for the promulgation of regulations as may be necessary and appropriate to carry out ICCAT recommendations.

In addition to statistical document, catch document, and re-export certificate requirements, this collection includes biweekly reports to complement trade tracking statistical documents by summarizing statistical document data and collecting additional economic information.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Abstract

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) deploys fishery observers on United States (U.S.) commercial fishing vessels and to fish processing plants in order to collect biological and economic data. NMFS has at least one observer program in each of its five Regions. These observer programs provide the most reliable and effective method for obtaining information that is critical for the conservation and management of living marine resources. Observer programs primarily obtain information through direct observations by employees or agents of NMFS; and such observations are not subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act (PRA). However, observer programs also collect the following information that requires clearance under the PRA: (1) Standardized questions of fishing vessel captains/crew or fish processing plant managers/staff, which include gear and performance questions, safety questions, and trip costs, crew size and other economic questions; (2) questions asked by observer program staff/contractors to plan observer deployments; (3) forms that are completed by observers and that fishing vessel captains are asked to review and sign; (4) questionnaires to evaluate observer performance; and (5) a form to certify that a fisherman is the permit holder when requesting observer data from the observer on the vessel. NMFS seeks to renew OMB PRA clearance for these information collections.

The information collected will be used to: (1) Monitor catch and bycatch in federally managed commercial fisheries; (2) understand the population status and trends of fish stocks and protected species, as well as the interactions between them; (3) determine the quantity and distribution of net benefits derived from living marine resources; (4) predict the biological, ecological, and economic impacts of existing management action and proposed management options; and (5) ensure that the observer programs can safely and efficiently collect the information required for the previous four uses. In particular, these biological and economic data collection programs contribute to legally mandated analyses required under the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (MSA), the Endangered Species Act (ESA), the Marine Mammal Protection Act (MMPA), the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA), Executive Order 12866 (E.O. 12866), as well as a variety of state statutes. The confidentiality of the data will be protected as required by the MSA, Section 402(b).

On June 12, 2020, The Office of Management and Budget granted approval under the emergency approval provisions of the PRA for NOAA fishery observers to immediately begin collecting safety information related to the COVID-19 national pandemic. Six supplementary safety questions were added to the existing approved information collection request. The questions are necessary to ensure safety of observers and the safety of vessel crew and plant staff during the evolving COVID-19 pandemic as they provide information related to the presence of COVID-19 among vessel crew or plant staff, the availability of safety equipment, and the existence of communicable disease safety plans. Although responses to these questions are voluntary, we encourage industry to respond to facilitate assessment of COVID-19 risks that a deployment may present and any precautionary steps that may be necessary to mitigate such risks.

The approval granted by OMB is valid through December 31, 2020. The 6-month approval allows observers or observer providers to collect this information by a phone call to the operator of a fishing vessel or management of a fish processing plant prior to observer deployment. Currently, there is no way to anticipate an end to the impact of COVID-19 or other communicable diseases. Therefore, NOAA needs to be prepared for the possibility of collecting these data for an extended period of time. NOAA now seeks to extend this information collection request for an additional three years, and proposes to modify the COVID-19 supplemental questions slightly to address all communicable diseases. As with the COVID-19 questions approved by OMB, observers or observer providers would verbally ask these questions prior to deployment. The revised questions to add to the existing information collection request are:

1. In the past 2 weeks, have the captain and crew been following state mandates for travel, physical distancing, or any other restrictions and guidance in response to the current health crisis?

2. Do any crew members currently have two or more symptoms of COVID-19 (fever, chills, cough, shortness of breath, headache, sore throat, new loss of taste or smell) or symptoms of any other communicable disease, such as tuberculosis, Methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA), etc.?

3. In the past 2 weeks, have any of the crew tested positive for, or been exposed to, someone who has tested positive for COVID-19 or any other communicable disease, such as tuberculosis, MRSA, etc.?

4. Does the vessel have procedures in place to reduce their exposures to COVID-19 or any other communicable disease, such as tuberculosis, MRSA, etc.?

5. Is there a response plan in place, should someone show symptoms of COVID-19, or any other communicable disease, such as tuberculosis, MRSA, etc., during a trip?

6. Is there a supply of personal protection and sanitizing equipment, such as face coverings, hand sanitizer, etc., onboard the vessel for the crew?

II. Method of Collection

The information will be collected by (1) via telephone or mail survey by the observer program staff or contractor planning to deploy observers; (2) NMFS observers while they are deployed on a vessel to observe a particular fishing trip; questions will be asked in-person to the captain, crew and/or owner (if on board the vessel) during the course of the observed trip; (3) via mail through follow up surveys of economic information not available during the trip; or (4) via feedback questionnaires mailed to the vessel owners or captains to evaluate observer performance.

Public comments were previously requested via the Federal Register on May 7, 2020, during a 60-day comment period. This notice allows for an additional 30 days for public comments.

Agency: National Oceanic and Atmospheric Association (NOAA).

Title: Vessel Monitoring System Requirements for the Pacific Islands Fisheries.

OMB Control Number: 0648–0441.

Form Number(s): None.

Needs and Uses: Owners of commercial fishing vessels in the Hawaii pelagic longline fishery, American Samoa pelagic longline fishery (only vessels longer than 50 feet), Northwestern Hawaiian Islands lobster fishery (currently inactive), and Northern Mariana Islands bottomfish fishery (only vessels longer than 40 feet) must allow the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) to install vessel monitoring system (VMS) units on their vessels when directed to do so by NOAA enforcement personnel. VMS units automatically send periodic reports on the position of the vessel. NOAA uses the reports to monitor the vessels' location and activities, primarily to enforce regulated fishing areas. NOAA pays for the units, installation, maintenance, and messaging. There is no public burden for the automatic messaging; however, the time required for VMS installation and annual maintenance are considered public burden.

Affected Public: Individuals or households; Business or other for-profit organizations.
